NEW

Denver & Rio Grande Western® Road Number 620

This 70' heavyweight mail baggage car is Pullman green with gold lettering and runs on 6-wheel passenger trucks. Built in the 1920s, this car was used by Denver & Rio Grande Western. Denver & Rio Grande Western operated the highest mainline through-route in the United States, cresting at over 10,000 feet in Tennessee Pass, Colorado. D&RGW and Southern Pacific merged in 1988 and the company was later acquired by Union Pacific.

DRGW® is a registered trademark of the Union Pacific Railroad.

#148 00 390...$29.95

NEW

Pennsylvania Road Number 6586

This 70' heavyweight mail baggage car is tuscan red with buff lettering and runs on 6-wheel passenger trucks. Built in the 1920s, this heavyweight mail baggage car was used by Pennsylvania Railroad and painted in the late Keystone scheme. Pennsylvania was one of the largest railroads in the United States in the late 1800s and early 1900s. In 1968, PRR merged with New York Central to form Penn Central, which in turn went bankrupt and joined several other failed roads to form Conrail. Conrail assets are now split equally between CSX and NS.

Santa Fe Heavyweight Fast Mail Express Train

Accepting Pre-Orders through January 31st

In the days before the convenience of air-mail, the internet or cell phones, Santa Fe's Fast Mail Express Train was a critical link that worked alongside the United States Post Office to transport high priority mail and packages. Parcels such as breaking news, periodicals, fresh seafood and fruit, and company mail and materials generally could not wait for shipment in standard freight services. In the mid-1940s, Train No. 7 was the main east-west Fast Mail Express train, running from Chicago to Los Angeles with an assortment of baggage cars, RPO's, an express boxcar and a coach (or "rider" car) for paying passengers.
