Norfolk Southern Road Numbers 996105

This 50' gondola with Barber Roller Bearing trucks was built for Southern Railway as SOU 66308. After the Norfolk Southern merger of 1982, at some point in the 2000s, it was repainted with white ends for Combo Loading of locomotive traction motors. Founded in 1982 through the mergers of Norfolk & Western and the Southern Railway, Norfolk Southern grew further in the late 1990s with the acquisition of just over half of the trackage and assets of Conrail Corporation. Today, NS is one of the largest Class 1 Railroads with over 30,000 employees and operates nearly 22,000 miles of track in the Eastern and Midwestern United States.

Chicago & North Western[®] Road Number 716494

April Fools!

This ex-Rock Island 50' box car with Barber Roller Bearing trucks was built in the late 1970s by FMC. It later found its way onto the Chicago & North Western roster through mergers. The C&NW lettering was painted out, and re-lettered. Though...part of the reporting mark stenciling on one side got a little confusing for the painters.

Medford, Talent & Lakecreek

The Medford, Talent & Lakecreek Railroad was established in 1918 to serve the communities throughout Oregon's Rogue Valley, helping move commodities to the Southern Pacific interchanges. The success of the modest shortline revolved around serving various agricultural, timber, and manufacturing industries, as well as some passenger and tourist traffic in the region. Though the wineries and orchards were still highly successful, by the 1970s and 80s, manufacturing and industry continued to increase in scope, constituting an ever-larger percentage of rail traffic in local trains. This necessitated infrastructure upgrades, and new railcars to be built to replace the aging rolling-stock from the 1940s and 50s.

Union Pacific[®] Arrowedge[®]

Developed by Union Pacific[®] in 2013, the Arrowedge[®] is designed to improve the aerodynamic drag of double-stack trains and have a positive environmental impact during operations. At 48' long, this tapered housing fits on top of the lead well car container and its efficiencies result in a decreased amount of locomotive power necessary to pull a train, lower fuel costs, and less exhaust.
